

Ian Barlow
Chairman
Think London

Ian Barlow is Chairman of Think London, London's foreign direct investment agency, the London Business Board and the 2012 London Business Network.

He is a senior adviser to KPMG and until April 2008 was the Senior Partner in KPMG's London office. His clients have included BP and ABF both very significant investors in China.

He is a Board Member of London First, the principal business organisation in London and of the China-Britain Business Council.

In his charitable work, he is Chairman of the Historic Royal Palaces, Campaign Board and was until June 2008 the founder Chairman of The Safer London Foundation, which is the charitable arm of the Metropolitan Police Service and which works to help London's communities to deal with the causes and effects of crime, with particular emphasis on youth crime.

www.thinklondon.com